

2017 Conference & Postgraduate Workshop

We are delighted to announce the annual EUSA Asia Pacific conference will be held at Aoyama Gakuin University (Tokyo) and all EU scholars, researchers and postgraduates are invited to apply.

The Roles of the EU and the Asia Pacific in the Global Era Politics, International Relations, Economics and Law

1+2 July 2017, Tokyo

2017 marks a critical opportunity to analyze a wide range of EU topics and challenges. The broad conference theme reflects these diverse contexts and situations facing the EU over the coming nine months. The Asia Pacific context adds a similar complexity contrasting robust economic development with political and security instabilities in the absence of any clear new regional or world order. How can

East Asia become more stable, peaceful and prosperous? What lessons or reflections can the EU and scholars of the integration process offer?

The conference will be organised around panels drawn from the disciplines of Politics, International Relations, Economics and Law. While the conference is open to paper proposals covering all aspects of European integration, we are especially keen to encourage contributions related to the contemporary Euro and immigration crisis, the implications of BREXIT and the first 15 years of monetary union. And, how do these themes affect the Asia Pacific both, negatively and positively?
